LOTTERY FUNDED

A new history of Scarning School that covers the school's history from its foundation in 1604 to the School Strike of 1883.

Notable pupils at the school included Charles Turner, who married Sir Robert Walpole's older sister, Edward Thurlow (George III's Lord Chancellor) and Horatio Nelson's father, Edmund.

The book includes sections on Horatio Nelson's family connections to the school. As well as telling the story of the school, the book explores many wider aspects of Norfolk's history and includes a wide range of subjects from slavery (one of the pupils was a prominent anti-slavery campaigner) to the Grand Tour (taken by the school's pupils and trustees) to agriculture (through the connection of one of the Masters to Thomas Coke of Holkham).

The book is printed in full colour and is 226 pages in length. The cost of a copy is £14.99.

The remaining copies are available from Nick Hartley (01362 687492) or nicklouise.hartley@btinternet.com
